Join us for our financial health workshops

They're a great way to build money skills for all ages

Chase offers interactive workshops that provide practical tips and step-by-step guidance on a range of topics to help consumers begin improving their financial health and feeling confident in their money skills. The workshops are tailored to support kids, adults and the elderly along their financial journeys. There's no cost to attend the sessions, which each last approximately 45 minutes, including time for Q&A.

Money Skills for Kids

These workshops for kids in grades K-5 and 5-8 help build the skills needed to have a good relationship with money. Topics include the value of money, earning money and spending and saving.

Money Skills for Families

Sessions that create a strong financial foundation to help parents by providing tips and activities to help kids learn good money habits.

Money Skills for Young Adults

Workshops that teach teens and young adults the skills needed for a smart relationship with money. Topics include budgeting, managing credit and preparing them for a healthy financial future.

Money Skills for Older Adults

These sessions offer tips and tools to help older adults and their families protect their finances as they age.

Money Skills for Adults

Sessions focused on helping adults have a positive relationship with money by learning how to save, budget and manage their credit to reach their financial goals.

Fraud and Scam Awareness

These workshops teach you how to spot common scams and help protect yourself and loved ones from fraud or identify theft.

Money Skills for Life Moments

From buying a house to getting started with longer-term planning, these workshops provide the information needed to be ready for the next big moment.
